

A previously published propofol-remifentanil response surface model does not predict patient response well in video-assisted thoracic surgery: Erratum

In the article, “A previously published propofol-remifentanil response surface model does not predict patient response well in video-assisted thoracic surgery”,<sup>[1]</sup> which appeared in Volume 96, Issue 19 of Medicine, the authors wish to include the following acknowledgement:

This study was supported by the grants from Taipei Veterans General Hospital, Taipei, Taiwan, R.O.C. and Anesthesiology Research and Development Foundation, Taipei, Taiwan, R.O.C.

Reference

- [1] Wang H-Y, Ting C-K, Liou J-Y. A previously published propofol-remifentanil response surface model does not predict patient response well in video-assisted thoracic surgery. Medicine. 96;19:e6895.