

Identification of SEPP1 polymorphisms is not a genetic risk factor for preeclampsia in Chinese Han women: A clinical trial and experimental study: Erratum

In the article, “Identification of SEPP1 polymorphisms is not a genetic risk factor for preeclampsia in Chinese Han women: A clinical trial and experimental study”<sup>[1]</sup>, which appeared in Volume 96, Issue 28 of Medicine, the authors would like to add Dr. Jiangli Wang as a corresponding author.

Jiangli Wang, Prenatal Diagnosis Center, the Affiliated Hospital of Qingdao University, Qingdao, China (email: wangjingliya@126.com)

Reference

- [1] Wu H, Jia X, Zhao H. Identification of SEPP1 polymorphisms is not a genetic risk factor for preeclampsia in Chinese Han women: A clinical trial and experimental study. Medicine. 96;28:e7249.