

The Significance of Rectus Femoris for the Favorable Functional Outcome After Total Femur Replacement: Erratum

In the article by Nakayama et al (The significance of rectus femoris for the favorable functional outcome after total femur replacement. Plast Reconstr Surg Glob Open 2016;4:e630; doi: 10.1097/GOX.0000000000000610), the academic degrees of all the author have been corrected to the following:

Takayuki Nakayama, MD
Seiichi Matsumoto, MD, PhD
Takashi Shimoji, MD, PhD
Keisuke Ae, MD, PhD
Taisuke Tanizawa, MD
Tabu Gokita, MD

REFERENCE

Nakayama T, Matsumoto S, Shimoji T, et al. The significance of rectus femoris for the favorable functional outcome after total femur replacement. Plast Reconstr Surg Glob Open 2016;4:e630. DOI: 10.1097/GOX.0000000000000610.