Evolution of clinical research: A history before and beyond James Lind

Sir,

This recent article (PICR January 2010;1:6-10) states conventionally that "James Lind is considered thefirst physician to have conducted a controlled clinical trial of the modern era" Unfortunately there is no evidence that Lind conducted the trial he claimed, nor were there any sailors with scurvy on the Salisbury on 20 May 1747.^[1]

Jeremy Hugh Baron

Gastroenterology Division, Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York, NY 10029, USA

Address for correspondence: Dr. Jeremy Hugh Baron, Gastroenterology Division, Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York, NY 10029, USA. E-mail: hughbaron@aol.com

REFERENCE

1. Baron JH. Sailors' scurvy before and after James Lind- a reassessment. Nutr Rev 2009;67:315-22.

