The Editor-in-Chief has retracted this article at the authors' request. After publication, the authors became aware that the KYSE180 cells used in this study were cross-contaminated. Further checks by the publisher identified high similarity between the KYSE180 200 and 300 μ M middle images. Additionally, the authors have stated that the number of injected cells for the in vivo tumor growth assay provided in the Materials and methods is incorrect.

All authors agree to this retraction.
