

ERRATUM

WILEY

The publisher would like to draw the readers' attention to the following errors.

An ethics approval statement was omitted from the article, 'Pandemic 2009 influenza A (H1N1)-associated deaths among children in China: A retrospective analysis'.¹ The statement should read:

The authors declare that this study was approved by the Ethics Committee of Shenzhen Children's Hospital.

The informed consent statement was unclear for the article, 'Effective treatment of post-intubation subglottic stenosis in children with holmium laser therapy and cryotherapy via flexible bronchoscopy'.² The statement should read:

The authors declare that consent to participate in this study and for publication was obtained from patients' parents/guardians.

An informed consent statement was omitted from the article, 'Clonal and drug resistance dynamics of methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus in pediatric populations in China'.³ The statement should read:

This was a retrospective study that did not contain any individual patient's detailed data. As such, informed consent to participate in the study, and for publication was waived as approved by the Ethics Committee of Beijing Children's Hospital, Capital Medical University.

An ethics approval statement was omitted from the article, 'Predictive value of C-reactive protein and the Pediatric Risk of Mortality III Score for occurrence of postoperative ventilator-associated pneumonia in pediatric patients with congenital heart disease'.⁴ The statement should read:

The authors declare that this study was approved by the Ethics Committee of Children's Hospital of Chongqing Medical University.

The publisher apologises for the errors.
